

A Better Way to Zip It

Yes, the Fashion Elite Clear Bag System (system haha) is just a glorified plastic cosmetic bag, but I kinda like it. When I was flying this past Monday, I felt a wave of shame as I sheepishly deposited my plastic bag in the tray at security because my broke-arse zippy was sporting a tear, lip gloss smear and random particles of unidentified substances from flights past crusted on its walls. I know I've been living in California too long, because I cringe when I think about using a new baggie every single time I fly. I hate waste. I've also been victim to the spill monster - I've lost a camera and a cell phone just this year to in-purse leakage of product. I know, that's bad.

So really, when it comes right down to it, something like this "system" from 311 Travel Products is probably made for people just like me. The jars and dispensers themselves are intriguing enough on their own. I've bought many of the drugstore equivalent, and some have worked just fine, but others have left me with clogged pumps and leaky tops.

These bags range from $24.95 to $44.95 and extra containers are available.
